DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the "torn portions" referred to claims 1-8, must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

2. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it too contains the phrase "torn portions" which has not been clearly shown in the drawings, or explained in the specification. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claims 1-8 requires torn portions, which is/are shown in Figure 1, and eluded to in the specification, as element 21. The specification gives absolutely no detail as to what a torn portion is. In addition, the drawings offer no further clarification. It should also be noted that the phrases "torn portions", "torn notch", and "torn protrusion", are not interchangeable, claim language needs to be consistent.
5. Claims 2 and 3 seem to be conflicting, are the torn portions protrusions or are they notches?

Art Unit: 2636

6. With regard to claims 5-8, it is unclear how elements previously shown within the body of the insulating members, as elements 21 and 31 (torn protrusions), are now shown on the outer edges (Figures 4 and 5, elements 22 and 23), but still referred to in the claims as the same torn portions shown in Figure 1. Furthermore, while it has not been shown why their spacing and placement is critical, with regard to being staggered or symmetrical, or random for that matter, how can notches, which are symmetrical with respect to the opposite sides of the main body, and staggered at the same time?

7. With respect to claim 13, again the drawings and the specification give no specific description regarding the "torn opening" depicted as element 72.

8. With regard to claims 9-12, and 14, the Examiner fully understands the limitations and subject matter presented in these claims. They are rejected based on their dependency to non-enabled claim 1.

9. Upon clarification, and/or amending the above claims, the Examiner will be able to properly act on the merits of this application. In their present form, the Examiner feels it is impossible to determine the scope of the claims, and therefore has not put forth an art rejection at this time. It should also be noted, that no new matter be incorporated.
